

What Shall Be Taught?

That was a good question which thoughtful members of the Unicameral raised in connection with the declaration by one of its members that he would seek to attach a rider to an appropriations bill making it mandatory for the University of Nebraska to drop courses admittedly designed to remedy gaps in the qualifications of young men and young women seeking to register for study at the University, lacking required credits.

Does the Unicameral possess the power to define what shall or shall not be taught? Is that a field over which the chancellor and the Board of Regents possess the sole authority?

While the purpose of dropping remedial courses, which in practical effect enable freshmen to make up basic requirements in registering for college work, may be most laudable it would be a sorry day indeed when the Board of Regents abandoned its responsibility for the administration of the University of Nebraska and the Legislature took over. Chancellor Hardin pointed out that the University of Nebraska was making progress in the elimination of these remedial courses. But it is a long process and it cannot be done overnight. It involves the high schools, and the courses of study there.

Basically though, American education will be best served by freedom from legislative interference when it comes to formulation of the curriculum.

Values Need Fixing

One of the most emphasized pieces of news coming out of the national meeting of the Presbyterian Church at Omaha was about a man who is giving up a $16,000 a year business to enter the ministry.

That may seem sensational to some readers and even to some editors. But we imagine the several hundred clergymen present thought there was nothing curious in it. Each in his time made the essential decision between a life of material gain and one of service. The new postulant himself saw nothing difficult in the choice. In his experience with two kinds of living he chose a richer life over a richer bank account. We would say in the long range he used excellent judgment.

Hold Those Shootin' Irons!

It is difficult to measure the calamity of a state that directs its course for years on the basis of an error.

That is something for Nebraskans to contemplate because if a certain surveyor wasn't standing in a hole recently this state has been wrong for ever so long on the location of its highest point. The honor of possessing greatest elevation has been the special satisfaction of Banner County, 5,340 feet. Now comes the county surveyor of Kimball County with a location he says is 11 feet higher. Moreover, he believes given a little more time and some lens paper to brighten the glass in his transit he can find still higher spots.

We implore both Banner and Kimball counties to restrain themselves and seek the World Court rather than arms to decide this matter. Nebraska is in enough trouble with the drought and Agricultural Secretary Ezra Taft Benson without engaging in an internecine war, whatever the cause.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

There was the chance the Senate, when it got around to it, would reverse the surprise action of the House in killing a substantial part of Secretary Benson's soil bank program aimed to reduce surpluses of farm commodities. Yet House action in itself furnished impressive evidence of a continuing mounting discontent in Congress over the Benson farm program, which he himself says should be given a thorough overhauling.

It was inevitable that sooner or later charges of waste would arise in connection with the soil bank program. Secretary Benson may feel ever so deeply about the accumulating surpluses of farm commodities which have bedeviled him and his handling of the Agriculture Department from the time he took over, but this business of paying farmers hundreds of millions of dollars for permitting their land to lie idle rubs even the beneficiary of soil payments the wrong way and in the case of people in the larger cities could not otherwise than fan sentiment against the continuance of the program when the demand is so strong for economy. What is more important to rural America, perhaps, is that Secretary Benson is moving nearer day by day, and rapidly, at that, to the hour for decision. What is it that he wants? What does he have to offer to insure those out on the farms of a fair share of the national income? The Benson plan for fixed flexible price supports simply has not turned out successfully. It ignores human nature. Since the turn of the century the observer could conclude only that the lower the farm price, or the narrower a margin of profit, the greater the temptation of the individual land owner or farm operator to plant more acres in order to offset lower prices.

It was under the cry of economy that the House Wednesday voted to kill the soil bank program at the end of the year. There were cries of waste and mismanagement. In voting to terminate the program before the harvest season of 1938, 154 Democrats were joined by 38 Republicans. Opposed to the step were 46 Democrats and 141 Republicans, so that the issue itself more or less followed party lines.

The question of greatest concern in the event the Senate follows in the footsteps of the House—unlikely but nevertheless a possibility in the mounting rebellion in Washington—is, where do we go from here? Beyond the natural, understandable opposition over the long pull to taking considerable tracts of land out of cultivation, the fact remains that the soil bank did not enable Mr. Benson to reduce production last year because of intensive methods of cultivation, improved seed, and the fact that much of the land taken out of cultivation was submarginal and unfitted for production. Secretary Benson has a choice of trying to pick up the pieces, chief of which would be a return to price supports based on 90 per cent of parity. He himself seems to think that the farmer will prosper best through the elimination of controls and adoption of the free market.

This much is certain. In the ranks of Congress there appears to be a more determined spirit to move for a showdown with Benson.

Ike's Team Talks Back—That's New

WASHINGTON — The amazing fact about this Republican administration is that it forgot the lesson taught by an earlier Republican administration. It's the lesson that once the budget is fixed no one on the administration team tampers with it. If he does, he gets off the team.

The man who fixed the policy was Charles G. Dawes in the Harding administration. His work as director of the budget earned him the vice presidency of the United States.

Prior to Dawes, everyone tampered with the budget. The Congress pulled it one way, different members of the administration pulled it different ways, just as it's being pulled today. It was a free-for-all—as it is today. Every cabinet member put in his two cents worth.

Dawes decreed that cabinet members could all argue about the budget — privately — before the budget was fixed. But once it was fixed everyone stuck together. Every cabinet member, every bureaucrat fought on the same team against Congress to defend the budget.

Every Democratic and Republican president since that day (1921) carried on the Dawes system — until this winter. Then the cabinet member closest to Ike — Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey — suddenly jumped on the budget. It was unprecedented. Old-line bureau chiefs waited for Humphrey to be fired. Any previous president would have fired him.

But he wasn't fired. Instead, Ike went to spend two weeks on Humphrey's Georgia plantation. The result spread through government like the recording of an earthquake on a seismograph. It was an earthquake — governmentwise.

AIRLINE POLITICS

Much-loved Walter George, the venerable elder statesman from Georgia, is no longer a member of the Senate, but the other day he sat in on a highly important closed-door huddle. It was held in the Senate's Vandenberg room to protest against the proposed CAB award to Pan American Airways of a nonstop route from New York to Mexico City.

Those who attended the meeting were: Sens. Allen Ellender and Russell Long, La., Olin Johnston and Strom Thurmond, S. C., Wilis Robertson, Va., all Democrats, plus representatives from Eastern Airlines.

"Eastern Airlines pioneered this route and built it up years before Pan American tried to get it," remarked Senator Long. "This idea of giving it to Pan American is the most incredible example of malfunction of government I have ever seen."

"The man probably responsible," said Senator Ellender, "is Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks. He's been the special friend of Pan American for some time."

The lengthy discussion revolved around the fact that in 1946 the Civil Aeronautics Board awarded Eastern Airlines the profitable New York-Mexico City nonstop run. Eastern had pioneered the routes from New York and Boston to Atlanta, New Orleans, and Houston years before; and it is customary to let the first operator of a route extend it further; also fly over the same route nonstop.

Pups; Plum Blossoms; A Well-Bred Daughter

By MONA B. PARKER

Wild plum thickets along Nebraska roadsides brought reminiscence and a floodtide of memories to several writers in the state press...

A Fillmore County News columnist had occasion to revisit the old home place where she had lived as a child. Long abandoned, the lawn was a tangle of weeds and the house itself cobwebbed and dust-layered. "But the old plum thicket where we had our play house in a cleared space was still there, and a length of rope between the old double corn cribs was mute reminder of the swing that used to hang from the beams..."

Helen Marr, writing for the Waltham Citizen, thought back to the time when three happy youngsters went after the cows and loitered to deck themselves with sprigs and chains and strands of the fragrant white springtime blossoms, in fancy becoming brides and angels and saints. "Then there was the fruit later in the summer to fill lunch pails as the old horse plodded his leisurely way homeward... and the ruby-red jelly her mother made..." The tang of wild plum jelly spread thick on a slice of freshly baked bread is a mouth-watering treat that brings back an old-fashioned farm kitchen, clean, cozy, comfortable.

Another little girl had definite ideas on bread, and the separation of what to her is wheat and what is chaff. Dorothy Payne of the Hooper Sentinel Paysnes, noting with maternal concern the "fringe of bread crusts" that surrounded the plate of daughter Marilyn, tried an old persuasive come-on with the sales talk that she herself really preferred the crispy, crunchy crust to the rest of the slice.

It sounded like an excellent Jack

There's more than one way to skin a cat, as the saying goes... or land a fish. The Orleans Chronicle tells of the little old lady there who went fishing with her family and took the gear that one of her grandsons had baited for her and wandered off to try her luck. She caught a good-sized fish and managed to get it out on the bank, but didn't know what to do with it next. So she lariatied it to a tree while she went back for assistance in unhooking the catch.

Spratt arrangement to the little girl. "We'll make a deal," she told her mother. "You give me your bread and I'll give you my crust."

Mrs. Payne might do well to accept. Her daughter evidently has all the crust she needs...

Editor Mary Packwood of the Johnson County Courier, deep in end-of-the-school-year activities, says you never realize how far and wide your old schoolmates are scattered until you try to round them all up for an alumni reunion.

One dog made much ado about nothing... the other played his last role quietly, and in doing so fulfilled nobly his protective obligation to the man who belonged to him...

Tinka, the Schaab family pup at Gretna, has imagination and bravery—and very little to show for it. While her people were doing some planting, she found a crack in the ground and made such a fuss, with the hair standing up in menacing fashion on the back of her neck, that they thought a big snake was about to emerge. The dirt parted and out came—a long, thin worm...

Modern Evangelines

Riverton, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The policy of Benson and Eisenhower on the farm question brings to mind the old English poem, stating:
"It fares the land to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates and men decay,
Princes and dukes may rise and fade,
A breath can make them as a breath has made,
But the noble farmer, the nation's pride,
When once destroyed,
Can never be supplied."

So wrote Goldsmith over a hundred years ago. What was true then is as true today. We look with pity on the poor Acadians, whom the English drove from their homes in Acadia, and yet that is just what is happening to many farmers today. Many are losing their homes.

In reading Longfellow's "Evangeline," one's heart goes out in pity for the poor Acadians; yet it seems to me that it is surpassed by the injustice resulting from this administration policy.

A Fool's Dream

Broken Bow, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: "Creeping paralysis" over a devastating war must be the first cure brought about by all nations. Feudal lordism is a thing of the past. Modern education and the increase in population the world over demand it. Each nation is being forced to adopt peaceful laws that will harmonize with their neighbor nations as well as the world at large.

That is the intent and purpose of the United Nations, which will start to function as soon as the belligerent nations stop forcing their will upon their neighbor nations. Threatening utter annihilation of all peoples is a fool's dream for any nation to propound.

Holding The Line

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I should like to express a point of view and make a few observations concerning the overwhelmingly popular view in Nebraska at the present time that stresses economy in government and "holding the line" in private social welfare as a desirable policy.

Policies that are desirable are based on truthful accounts of the situations with which they claim to deal. And the impression is widely given and an impression psychologically is being attempted to be developed that Nebraska is in the throes of an economic depression as dire and as gloomy as the early 30's.

Aware of certain aspects of the economy that are less healthy and buoyant than they were and the consequences of several years of drought, nevertheless the basic attitude of the state legislature and other municipal and civic groups is not one based on facts.

Nebraska's business year last year was good. It may be that as a social worker I am particularly sensitive to the fact that the needs of many of the less fortunate in Nebraska are badly lagging behind the services presented in many of our neighboring midwestern states. The simple facts are that in the area of services for children as a public responsibility in the welfare area, Nebraska's lacks are such as to make us suspect of something that might be called "adult delinquency." One can turn everywhere and see deficiencies... In Lincoln there is one trained

Demos Chafe Over Sen. Byrd's Delay

WASHINGTON—Democrats who think they know a good issue when they see it are becoming increasingly restive over the slow start of the Senate Finance Committee's inquiry into the Eisenhower administration's monetary and fiscal policies.

What they fear is that Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey and his controversial under secretary, W. Randolph Burgess, will disappear into the tall grass of private life before the proposed probe can get well started. There is a fresh spate of rumors fixing July 1 as the departure date of these two officials.

Personal devils are an imperative in the successful development of a political issue by a congressional committee. Humphrey or Burgess, or both, would fill the bill in this instance, and justly so because they have in truth and in fact made profound changes in the management of the public debt and the cost of money generally. These changes have created acute anxiety among many economists, financial experts and politicians.

The men who made them, rather than their successors, are the obvious choices to explain and defend their policies.

Undeniably, Humphrey and Burgess have added billions to the annual cost of carrying the huge public debt. The only beneficiaries are the banks. Critics of the Humphrey-Burgess management believe they have, by design, put the government at the mercy of the bankers now and in the foreseeable future.

At the same time, the cost of doing business has been increased, since the commercial money rate tends to follow the Treasury rate. The enticing prospect that some senators see here is another Bank of the United States case where the question was whether the government or the private banks would control the central banking system. That fight set the character, as nothing else did, of the administration of Andrew Jackson as a champion of the people. It set a pattern for the Democratic Party which, in theory at least, the party continues to follow.

The key figure in the coming investigation is, of course, the Senate finance chairman, Harry F. Byrd of Virginia. It is a new role for that Southern conservative, who has been almost isolated in the Senate for years and who has taken little if any part in Senate investigations.

Byrd chose his new role deliberately. Senator Albert Gore, a new member of the Finance Committee, had proposed a joint investigation by the Senate and House; by custom, Gore would have been its chairman. Byrd countered with the proposal that the Finance Committee make the investigation itself. This automatically put the reins in Byrd's hands.

Graham Opens In New York

NEW YORK — Billy Graham surprised a good portion of the reporters who covered his opening at Madison Square Garden by his modulated approach. Those who hadn't seen him before expected a cross between Billy Sunday and Oral Roberts. He was more like an ecclesiastical Newbold Morris.

The opening night crowd of 18,500 was remarkable in that this assault on the satanic citadel of Broadway attracted people who would have been just as much at home at a PTA meeting in Scarsdale or Oyster Bay. There was a good, clean, solid citizen look to those in the seats and those who came forward to repent. The usual Madison Square Garden characters, who could use a little reverence, were nowhere in sight. The Broadway sharpies were out sharpening somewhere. The only untoward note of the evening came when, while Billy was expounding Isaiah, some parishioner rolled a photographer for $800 worth of camera equipment. Billy has promised to pray for the thief.

Britain has joined the H-bomb powers, upping the total to three. The significance is enormous, of course. There will be fresh overtures to her as an ally, by the other two. We have the head start there, of course. But Russia will stop at nothing trying to drive a wedge between us and attempt to win her. The stakes are as high as the weapon is appalling.

The event at Christmas Island makes the warning of Bernard M. Baruch more compelling than ever. It is Mr. Baruch's contention that unless the great powers agree quickly on a puncture-proof system of controlling the manufacture and use of such bombs, the smaller nations—some with lesser consciences—will in time create nuclear arsenals of their own. And then the people of the world will indeed live in hourly dread of little wars capable—in an age of chain reaction—of igniting the world.

I hope your kids missed "Mr. Broadway" on TV last weekend. I wouldn't like them or any youngster to think that what they saw was the life of one of America's greatest citizens and the theater's greatest phenomenon. George M. Cohan was a soft-spoken man. He was a considerate and charitable person. He was a fine and gifted gentleman.

He wasn't the rude, crude ass the American public saw on TV. The writers changed the most fabulous success in theater history into a flop. They made no mention of the special Congressional Medal President Roosevelt presented to Cohan at the White House in 1940, nor any mention of "Over There" and "Grand Old Flag." I hope the writers are never assigned to do George Washington. They'd make him out a liar and a private.

School Bill Poses New Problems For Decker

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

State Commissioner of Education Freeman B. Decker said Thursday that he does not "relish the job of arriving at a formula for distribution, or distributing the money which Nebraska will be eligible to receive under the federal school construction bill now before Congress."

One of the hottest bills in Congress, the federal aid measure is still under consideration, but under the present formula, Nebraska would receive about $1,500,000 a year for school construction.

Decker said it would be up to the State Board of Education to determine whether Nebraska would accept the money. It would also be the board's responsibility, he continued, to prescribe the formula for its distribution within the state and there would be no restrictions by the federal government.

"Won't Be Enough"

The education commissioner said he knew there would be dozens of districts in the state wanting the money and added "there won't be enough to go around to all of them."

Decker said that under tentative plans a Nebraska school district must be able to show it has made a reasonable effort to take care of its own building needs.

He stated this would be evidenced by a "reasonable bond levy and a well-organized K-12 district."

Decker said the state board would consider the matter at its next meeting June 6.

Just back from Washington where he attended a conference of state commissioners of education called by Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Marion Folsom and U.S. Education Commissioner Lawrence Derthick, Decker described the meeting as "excellent and worthwhile."

The Nebraska educational official said the distribution of federal funds under Public Law 815 was discussed at the meeting. This law provides federal funds for construction of schools and education of children who have been brought into an area because of federal activities.

Decker said Nebraska has received $3,245,188 from this fund, since 1951 for construction of schools in 14 districts.

Also, he continued, Nebraska received $953,457 in federal aid this year for maintenance of schools in 45 districts under a companion measure, Public Law 874.

The Meadow Lane School in Lincoln was constructed with funds provided under PL 815 and another school is being constructed at the Lincoln Air Force Base under the same law.

Control Lack Hit By State Farm Leaders

Two Nebraska farm group officials added their views on the recent defeat of the soil bank program, striking at the "lack of production control" evidenced in the defeated measure.

Charles Marshall, head of the Farm Bureau Federation in Nebraska commented that "it still is not clear what the causes of the soil bank defeat by the House were."

Explaining that the federation favors the general ideas behind the soil bank, he said that "we differ with the methods adopted to put it into effect."

Last year's program, Marshall said, caused farmers to divert from one crop to another, not bank their fertile soil for future use.

"Courage" Said Needed

"An effective soil bank program can be developed if Congress will have the courage to include stronger measures for compliance." The defeated soil bank plan failed to curb surpluses through effective production control, he added.

"The soil bank is not dead," the Federation official stated. "Some type of program will be adopted. There will be much more maneuvering before the Senate finally passes on the issue."

Reporting on a Thursday evening meeting of the state board of directors of the Farmers Union, State President Elton Berk said the members called for changes in the soil bank plan.

"Not Much Result"

The chief value of the plan was termed in "its soil conservation possibilities" by board members who agreed that the soil bank had "not much result as a production control measure."

The board called for increased industrial uses in future soil bank plans, suggesting compliance with recommendations of the presidential appointive committee headed by J. Leroy Welsh of Omaha.

The Union officials also endorsed relatively high price supports. The farmer organization officials discussed possible changes in the soil bank organization which may result from the 192-187 House vote killing the present program Wednesday. The House vote was taken on an appropriations bill barring any soil bank payments to farmers in 1958.

Youth Admits Murder Of Woman, 73

BOULDER, Colo. (INS) — A Boulder, Colo., high school student confessed Thursday to the murder of a 73-year-old widow and could give no reasons for the crime.

Boulder Police Chief Myron Teegarden said 19-year-old Kevin M. Stelter, who lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob S. Stelter, near the shed where Ellenora Allen was found fatally beaten Monday afternoon, confessed the crime.

Teegarden said Stelter was brought in for questioning in a routine check of possible suspects. He said Stelter, who has a "good background", "broke down" after confessing.

No Reason

Teegarden said the youth "could offer no reasons" for killing the Boulder widow.

The confession follows the forwarding of a stained ballpeen hammer to the FBI laboratory in Washington in an effort to find clues in the brutal slaying.

Committee Asks Installment Purchasers Bill Be Divided

The Legislature's Banking Committee voted Thursday to have two bills drawn in substitute for one bill which proposes to license and tax all purchasers of installment paper.

At a public hearing Thursday afternoon on LB 605, introduced by the Banking Committee, it was suggested that both bills could not be legally achieved in one measure.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, member of the committee who was responsible for the introduction of LB 605, was asked to have a substitute bill drawn which would put licensing of the time-sales purchasers under the regulation of the Banking Department.

The second measure Carpenter will have drawn will call for a 12 mill tax on the gross income of such companies.

Without Hearing

The committee was advised that since it had received authority from the Legislature to introduce a bill covering both the licensing and taxation of the companies, it also had authority to send to the Legislature the two new bills without another public hearing.

Carpenter told the committee Nebraska was losing about $500,000 a year in failing to tax these companies.

Among those appearing in opposition to the original LB 605 were: Clarence Landon of Omaha, representing Nebraska Associated Discount Cos. and Securities Acceptance Corp.; Nick Neff of Fremont, representing the Nebraska New Car Dealers Assn.; Chauncey Barney, Lincoln attorney representing the Nebraska Bankers Assn.; Cliff Ogden of Omaha for Securities Acceptance Corp., and Dan Charlton of Omaha, representing General Motors Acceptance Corp.

Landon advised the committee that his company, Securities Acceptance Corp., pays about $11,000 a year in taxes.

He said Nebraska's current laws place local companies at a disadvantage with national companies which are not now taxed.

He said the original bill would not achieve the objectives desired by the committee and would still leave local companies "out on a limb."

Commenting that he didn't want to infer "animosity" against national companies, Landon said local companies haven't the resources to handle all of the business generated in Nebraska.

"Wouldn't Object"

He said he talked to national company representatives, as well as local firms, who agreed they would not object to taxation as long as it was "fair, reasonable and just."

Charlton told the committee that GMAC had at one time paid taxes in Nebraska but that the money was returned by the courts when it was determined such taxes were not required under present state laws.

He said his company feels it is a "real privilege" to do business in Nebraska and is "perfectly willing to pay taxes if they are not discriminatory."

Defense Boss Wilson Blames Inflation For Increased Military Spending

WASHINGTON (INS) — Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson blamed inflation for increased military spending Thursday and warned that any reduction in the Pentagon's 33 billion dollar budget will reduce the nation's armed strength.

Refusing to concede that even minor cuts would be justified, Wilson contended the military budget actually is lower in terms of purchasing power than it was in 1954.

The secretary told a news conference "I don't see any great strain" in continuing the present spending level. He flatly rejected suggestions that there should be further military unification and said this would result in a "concentration of stupidity," and "wouldn't save one dollar."

Wilson, waging a two-fronted fight to stave off congressional moves to cut the defense budget about two and a half billion dollars, appeared at the news conference with a prepared statement.

Increases

He listed these inflationary increases in military costs since 1954: personnel, 15 per cent; civilian employees, 16 per cent; operation and maintenance, 11 per cent; major weapons purchases, 18 per cent; and construction, 9 per cent.

The defense chief continued: "It is clear from these simple facts that the apparent increase in the size of the defense budget since 1954 simply reflects the effect of price and wage increases."

"In terms of dollars with 1954 purchasing power, the 1958 budget requests of 38.2 billion dollars would be equivalent to about 33.4 billion, or 1.8 billion less than the 1954 budget of 35.2 billion."

Wilson conceded that the new budget is more than twice the 1950 spending, but said "everyone knows that was too low." He said the "panic" budgets during the Korean War were partly an attempt to make progress that should have been made before.

The Pentagon chief hit hard at proposals for further unification advanced by Vannevar Bush, president of the Carnegie Institution, and others. He said these proposals would establish a "czar" over the military services.

Wrong Thing

"When a man asks for the authority of a czar," Wilson said, "he is asking the power to do the wrong thing and make everyone suffer."

Wilson referred to his experience as president of General Motors, and said that company had always rejected the idea of centralized purchasing.

Th secretary contended that a 5 per cent reduction in the budget would reduce military strength by "about the same percentage." He also:

1. Said America's U.N. allies will be consulted before atomic-capable weapons are sent to South Korea, but will not dictate the policy to be adopted on that issue. He said "we would look into the validity" of any objections that are raised to the plan.
2. Denied that there is any plan to drop the court-martial charges against Col. John C. Nickerson, missile expert scheduled to go on trial at Huntsville, Ala.
3. Contended that the Pentagon has ample legal authority to grant 50 million dollars in raises to skilled enlisted men without consulting Congress. He said, however, that no administrative authority exists for raising the pay of commissioned officers.

Attorney Accuses Railroad Of Padding Its Cost Figures

An attorney for the city of Alliance Thursday charged the Burlington Railroad with padding its expense accounts.

The attorney, A. T. Reddish, is representing Alliance, Hyannis and the Western Nebraska United Chambers of Commerce in oral arguments before the State Railway Commission.

The arguments Thursday were on a motion requesting additional information in hearings on a Burlington request to drop Trains 41 and 44 to Alliance on Sundays.

Fred Hurlbut, secretary of the Railway Commission, conducted the hearing Thursday.

More Information

Reddish moved to request additional information from the Burlington on costs.

He charged the railroad was padding figures by combining equipment costs of modern rail lines with the Alliance trains which he said have been depreciated in cost.

He also was asking for more information on freight charges which he said were being increased in some cases to cover passenger losses.

The hearing on the Burlington request has been continued to May 20 at Broken Bow.

The Burlington also wants to dis-

Congress Sends First Money Bill To Ike Cutting Treasury, P.O., Tax Court $80 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress wrapped up and sent to the White House Thursday its first big money bill of the year, and Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) proclaimed: "We have saved $80,363,000 for the taxpayers in the first of the 15 annual appropriations."

The $3,884,927,000 bill, to finance the Treasury and Post Office Departments and the tax court, was $80,363,000 smaller than President Eisenhower had asked.

While the reduction was only 2 per cent, it symbolized the uphill struggle Eisenhower is in for in his effort to get all, or nearly all, of the $71,800,000,000 he plans to spend in the year beginning July 1.

His newest appeals in support of the budget, voiced in a speech to the nation Tuesday night and in his news conference Wednesday, developed little if any effective response.

Deeper Slashes

Other bills nearing final action are carrying cuts averaging 8 per cent under White House requests, and even deeper slashes have been predicted for some items like foreign aid which are yet to reach either the House or Senate.

The Treasury-Post Office bill was dispatched to the White House—"put it on roller skates," Johnson jokingly suggested to Senate clerks—after the Senate accepted a minor House amendment.

The total included $691,467,700 for the treasury, a cut of $22,364,000 under White House figures; $3,192,000,000 for the Post Office, a cut of $58,000,000; and $1,460,000 for the tax court, with no cut.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) predicted that the Post Office will call for more money before the year is over. To that, Johnson, the Senate Democratic leader, replied: "I will not look with sympathy on any supplemental request."

House Funds

The House Appropriations Committee meanwhile approved a $78,470,285 bill to operate the House and related agencies during the year beginning July 1.

This total represented a cut of less than 3 per cent from overall requests, as compared to the 8 per cent average cut made in previous bills.

On the general question of administration spending, Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said it ought to stop "looking for things to do for people" that add to the taxpayers' load.

And an analysis of the first roll call vote to be taken in the Senate on an appropriation bill since Eisenhower went "to the people" showed 14 Republican senators on his side and 23, including the party's Senate leadership, against him.

Bills Advance Conforming To Court Opinion

Initial approval was given in the Legislature Thursday to three bills backed by the State Judicial Council to conform to a recent U.S. Supreme Court opinion.

The measures bring state laws into line in connection with giving personal as well as published notice of legal actions, including special assessments.

The three bills, LB's 589, 590 and 591, respectively make the necessary corrections in Nebraska law for the provisions of personal notification, permit municipalities to reassess and relevel such claims which may have been done illegally before the high court decision, and set a one year statute of limitations on claims against political subdivisions for such improper notification in the past.

Other bills advancing from general file include:

LB 366—extending the time for filing subcontractor's lien to three months.

LB 602—authorizing the revision of statutes to update Volumes IV and V of the state revised statutes.

LB 448—permitting county boards to sell real estate acquired during foreclosures of old age assistance liens in the same manner as in tax sales.

LB 603—calling for a general election vote on a constitutional amendment to permit municipalities to own and acquire real estate to lease to private enterprises.

LB 512—permitting a county election commissioner to appoint up to 10 persons to the official canvassing board.

LB 567—creating a state planning commission under the Division of Nebraska Resources.

LB 604—requiring that economic points be sold under proper labels.

LB 234—permitting a sheriff in a county holding a distress warrant for a delinquent taxpayer to send that warrant to the sheriff of the county to which the taxpayer has moved.

Organizations which will be represented on the board of directors for two-year terms are Central State Health and Accident Assn. ## Omaha, Wichita Vie For '58 Meet Of Lutheran Group

HASTINGS, Neb. (AP)—The four-day convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod in the central states closed in Hastings Thursday with invitations from Kountze Memorial Lutheran Church, Omaha and St. Paul Lutheran Church, Wichita, as sites for the 1958 convention.

The sites will be chosen later by the executive committee of the synod.

An almost doubled budget was voted for the United Lutheran Church in America of which the central states is the 9th largest constituent. The budget of $553,958 for 1958 compared to $281,736 for 1957.

The synod budget showed a slight increase from $256,624 in 1957 to $264,381 for 1958.

A church official said the sizeable increase in the ULCA budget is due largely to four problems. The first is a building program in the American mission field in which churches are to be provided for 10 congregations now more than 2½ years old but not yet in their first building.

Convocation Of Church Women May Draw 4,000

A native of Ulysses, Neb., and a graduate of the University of Nebraska, Mrs. Salsbury was elected in 1954 and will serve until 1958.

Mrs. Glen G. Avery of Scottsbluff, Neb., is chairman of a sub-committee charged with over-all responsibility of the convocation.

Principal speaker for the convocation will be the Rev. Dr. Paul S. Wright of Portland, Ore., former moderator of the general assembly.

Sid Caesar Ends 10-Year Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—Television comedian Sid Caesar Thursday ended his 10-year contract with the National Broadcasting Co. His Saturday night show has received low ratings in recent months.

Rail Express Director To Speak Here

... At Resources Meet

F. Dade Kelley of New York City, director of sales for the Railway Express Agency, will be the main speaker at the Nebraska Human Resources Research Foundation, Inc., annual meeting Saturday at the Cornhusker Hotel.

The meeting will begin at 9 a.m. Kelley will speak at noon.

Participating in the morning programs will be R. A. Strickland of New York City, director of public relations for the Railway Express Agency.

The Nebraska Human Resources Research Foundation is only one year old as a non-profit corporation, but the projects from which it has developed have been in operation for over nine years.

Initiated By Hall

Dr. William E. Hall, professor of educational psychology and measurements at the University of Nebraska, began giving students the opportunity to work in human relations projects in 1948. Local businessmen have provided much of the support for the program since that time.

The present administration of the Foundation includes Dr. Hall, director; Dr. Don O. Clifton, associate director and secretary; trustees, G. F. Brownfield (president), James A. Strauss (vice president), Joseph Carlotto, Julius Humann, Wilbur A. Miller, the Very Rev. Msgr. Jerome Murray, Dr. Ralph Roberts, Maj. Vaughn Stevens, Dr. Frank Sorenson and Dr. C. Vin White.

Consultants to the project are Dean Frank Henzlik of the University of Nebraska Teachers College, Guy E. Reed of Chicago and Clyde I. Underwood of Buffalo, N. Y.

Hastings Shrine Temple Has Spring Ceremonial

HASTINGS, Neb. — The Tethama Shrine Temple of Hastings Thursday night held its annual spring ceremonial for the reception of new members. Shriners from Omaha and Lincoln were present to help in the ceremonies. A scheduled parade was cancelled because of rain.

The contract had seven years to go, but NBC regretfully let Caesar out.

He will finish out the current season which ends May 25.

A spokesman said Caesar has no definite future plans but is expected to come up with something "within a month or so."

It has been common knowledge for some time that Caesar's show was having sponsor trouble. It costs from $110,000 to $120,000 a week and NBC cannot afford to carry it on a sustaining basis, that is without sponsorship.

However, the Caesar spokesman pointed out, sponsorship follows ratings. And Caesar's show has fallen behind the rival Lawrence Welk show on ABC-TV.

In nine years on TV, Caesar set a longevity record for a TV comedian. He once ranked as TV's best performer and he and members of his cast have won a number of industry awards.

$200,000 Suit Filed Here Names City Officials

George H. Brasier, Oklahoma resident and formerly of Lincoln, has filed a $200,000 suit in U. S. District Court naming Lincoln officials and others as defendants.

Brasier, owner of a 510-by-50-foot tract at 1426 No. 12th, alleged that he entered a paving petition district relying on a belief that a water district would also be constructed.

He alleges that the defendants conspired against the creation of the water district and his property became useless as a profitable enterprise.

Brasier claims damages of $200,000 asks injunctive relief, alleging a "no-trespassing sign was removed, plotting stakes taken, and refuse burned on his premises."

Named defendants are former Mayor Clark Jeary; Councilman Pat Ash; City Engineer D. L. Erikson; Conrad Schneider, officer of the American Forward Assn.; Harry Brehm and George A. Mehner, officers of the Welfare Society Inc.; Jack Schelegel and others unknown.

One Hospitalized, 3 Others Hurt In 3-Car Accident

One Lincolnite was listed in good condition at a local hospital, and three others were treated and released following a three-car accident at the corner of 40th and O late Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Myrtle Wood, 57, of 850 So. 36th, suffered injuries. Released following treatment were Mrs. Paul Reis, 59, of 1730 Dakota; Richard Doty, 16, of 225 So. 50th, and Mrs. Leo Johnson, 29, of 3231 No. 68th.

Police Officer Kenneth Tenopir said two cars, the first driven by Erna D. Nare, 24, of 4645 Judson, and the second by Mrs. Wood, were waiting for the eastbound traffic to clear on O before they made a left hand turn onto 40th St. The two cars were westbound, he said.

Tenopir reported that a car driven by Richard P. Doty, 16, of 225 So. 50th, collided with the rear of Mrs. Wood's vehicle, driving it into the back of Mrs. Nare's automobile, and then into a light pole.

Damage to the three cars was considerable, Tenopir said. The city estimated the damage to the pole, which was tilted by the impact, at $75.

NU Baseball Team Faces Week-End Battle With Sooners

Ziegenbein 1st Husker Chucker

The sizzling Big Seven baseball race gets down to cases at Iowa State and at Nebraska this week end.

While Nebraska enters the once-proud Oklahoma Sooners in the first of three week-end games today, Iowa State takes on Kansas. Both series bear "crucial" tags.

The Cornhuskers, who usually find themselves in hot pursuit of Oklahoma, have the lead on the Sooner team they'll face at 3 p.m. today and in a 10 a.m. doubleheader Saturday. A forecast of rain Friday may turn the series into strictly a two-game affair.

Nebraska is tied for second with Iowa State in the league standings. Both clubs have 7-4 records, and trail idle Missouri by seven percentage points. Oklahoma (5-4) is fourth.

Iowa State is in the driver's seat. The Cyclones have the Kansas series and a set with sixth-place Colorado left; Nebraska must play the defending champion Sooners and Kansas.

Today's Nebraska-Oklahoma game figures to match two of the top pitchers in the league. Tony Risinger, rated one of the top college pitchers in the nation, is slated to go today against Nebraska's Charles Ziegenbein (3-1), nifty southpaw from Wisner.

Coach Jack Baer of Oklahoma has nominated Eddie Fisher, unbeaten this year, to pitch the first game of the Saturday doubleheader. Baer is undecided on the starter for the third game of the series.

Coach Tony Sharpe will counter with Dwight Siebler (3-0), fast-balling sophomore in the opener Saturday and will follow with Jim Kubacki (2-1), who has served well in relief this spring.

Both clubs come into the series with few hitters cracking at a good clip. Oklahoma has produced only three runs in its last two doubleheaders. Three Nebraska regulars are batting over .300, with veteran second baseman Al Karle on top at .313. Jim Kane is the top Nebraska slugger with 14 runs batted in.

BIG 7 MEET OPENS TODAY

— Kansas Heavy Favorite —

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

With the weatherman calling for more rain in the Lincoln area, the 29th annual Missouri Valley Intercollegiate Athletic Association Track and Field Championships will get underway this afternoon at Memorial Stadium.

Preliminaries in the shot put, javelin, 440, broad jump, 100-yard dash, 120-yard high hurdles, 880, 220-yard dash, and 220-yard low hurdles, are slated today, beginning at 3 p.m.

Prelims and finals will be held in the discus.

Additional rain may serve to dampen the track, but enthusiasm for this annual event—which comes to Lincoln once every seven years—is running at fever pitch.

One of the nation's greatest track conferences, the Big Seven will present a tremendous collection of cinder stars competing in their specialties.

Nine individual champions will be back to defend titles won at Manhattan, Kan., last spring as Kansas swept to its fifth consecutive outdoor crown.

There's nothing to indicate the Jayhawks will fail in their bid for a sixth title, although the Missouri Tigers are expected to do the most pushing. Nebraska and Colorado figure to scrap it out for third.

Of the nine returning champions, five are from Kansas—Lowell Janzen in the 880, Hal Long in the mile, Jerry McNeal in the two-mile, Al Oerter in the discus and Kent Floerke in the high jump.

The others are Pete Orr of Missouri in the 440, Gene O'Connor of Kansas State in both the high and low hurdles and Ken Yob of Colorado in the javelin.

Oerter is one of two Olympic performers participating in the meet. He copped the Melbourne Gold Medal. Keith Gardner, Nebraska's chief hope for numerous points, was a member of the Jamaica Olympic team.

Gardner will be after his second straight high hurdle title. He won the 60-yard high at Kansas City in February as the Huskers roared from the '36 cellar to a third-place finish.

Keith will also run in the 220 and on the Husker relay team.

Husker Coach Frank Sevigne is counting on Bill Hawkins (broad jump), Don Philipps (sprints), Dick Jahr (sprints), Bill Marten (hurdles), Knolly Barnes (880), Bob Elwood (2-mile), Dale Knotek (high jump), Larry Gausmann (high jump) and Ken Pollard (pole vault) for the bulk of Nebraska's scoring.

Friday's prelims will feature both field and track events, with contestants seeking a post in Saturday finals.

There are no prelims in the mile, two-mile, mile relay, high jump or pole vault.

Top races of the first day will probably come in the hurdles, where defending king O'Connor will have to fight off a great field of challengers—Gardner, Charles Batch of Missouri, Dave Freeman of Kansas and Phil Frasier of Oklahoma—if he is to repeat.

Kansas, as usual, will have a power-packed lineup from the 440 through the two-mile, plus outstanding competitors in the shot, discus and broad jump.

The absence of Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain serves to substantiate the rumors flying around that he has decided to chuck the Jayhawks in favor of the pros.

Bauer Accused Of Fighting At Late Birthday Party

NEW YORK (INS) — Yankee rightfielder Hank Bauer was threatened with a $250,000 civil suit Thursday for allegedly hitting a Yankee fan in a pre-dawn night club slugfest, and angered manager Casey Stengel disciplined two of the players involved in the incident.

Bauer denied that he had slugged Edwin Jones, 40, a delicatessen man, saying, "I didn't hit anybody."

Bauer, an ex-Marine medal winner, was helping teammate Billy Martin celebrate his birthday party early Thursday morning at the Stengel yanked Ford from the starting pitching role Thursday night against the Athletics, benched Berra and promised further reprisals as a result of the Copa incident.

Bauer remained a starter in right field, but was dropped to eighth in the batting order. Ford, the Yankee ace southpaw, was relegated to pitching batting practice.

"I'm certainly not going to pitch a pitcher who has been up until 2 a.m. and the whole world knows about it," Stengel declared.

Stengel said that Berra might have been benched anyway for not hitting, but added:

"Berra's been around a long time and should know better."

Stengel was asked if something further might be done, and he said:

"Yes, I generally do something about things like that."

It was indicated that Stengel may issue his first fine since taking over as Yankee manager in 1949.

Despite the benching of the scheduled starting battery, the Yanks beat Kansas City 3-0. (Story on Sports Page 18, Col. 1).

Latest addition to the Chiefs' new faces club is Pitcher Ron Sheetz who has been optioned to Lincoln by Columbus of the Class AA International League.

He joins Reggie Grenald and Dewey Williams, both of 1956 fame; Catcher Bill Onuska and Jackson as players the Chiefs have gotten since they went on the western road trip.

On that swing the Chiefs posted a 3-3 mark, splitting a pair with Amarillo, dropping a pair to Albuquerque and sweeping a two-game series with Colorado Springs.

Sheetz is a righthander and weighs 185 pounds. He was with Mexico City in 1956 and led the league with 45 appearances. He started 20 games, posted a 13-12 record and in 189 innings he fanned 107.

Karle Named Legion Coach

The Lincoln Optimists American Legion junior baseball team will be coached by Allyn Karle, 26-year-old second baseman from the University of Nebraska nine, it was announced Thursday.

Karle, veteran campaigner with college and semi-pro experience, is a native of Grand Island. He coached the GI legion team in 1951.

Karle takes the reins from George Fenger, who managed the team last year. Elmer Reiling of the Optimist Club has been named manager this season.

No date has been set for the first practice session, but it will probably follow the state high school baseball tournament May 23-25. Players from Lincoln Northeast and Lincoln High will make up the squad.

No Action Yet On Big 7 Acceptance Of Aggies

Big Seven football coaches, athletic directors and faculty representatives opened their spring deliberations at the Hotel Cornhusker Thursday, but no announced action was taken.

It was the feeling in most circles that approval of Oklahoma A&M as an eighth school in the league was just a matter of the official vote.

However, the faculty group—which must approve the Aggies—had nothing to report on the subject.

Reaves Peters, conference commissioner, would neither confirm nor deny that Oklahoma A&M had been discussed Thursday.

"We have nothing to report at this time," he said at the conclusion of Thursday's session. "When and if there is anything to say on the matter we will make an announcement."

Peters did say that the Aggies have not made an application for membership. However, Oklahoma A&M is desirous of joining the Big Seven, and indications are that the conference will extend an invitation.

The directors and coaches held separate and joint meetings Thurs-

Weather Fails To Stop Anglers

Rain and cool weather hurt fishing in Nebraska the past week but many good catches were reported, the State Game Commission said.

In Douglas, Sarpy and Saunders Counties fishing pressure was heavy, and the Platte, Elkhorn and Missouri Rivers gave up good catches of catfish.

Kenneth Drost of North Platte caught an 18-pound, nine-ounce northern pike, 37 inches long, on Maloney Reservoir, and Bill Barry of Sutherland landed a 15-pound yellow catfish at the inlet to Sutherland Reservoir.

In Cherry County, Bud Philipps of Valentine took two northern pike weighing nine pounds each from Big Alkali.

JIM KANE... Husker catcher leads the team in runs batted in with 14.

Brooks Koufax Whiffs 13 Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Brooks Koufax, 21-year-old bonus lefty Sandy Koufax, struck out 13 and yielded four hits as the Dodgers nipped the Chicago Cubs, 3-2, in a game which matched the National League record of 23 strikeouts by both clubs Thursday.

The major league record is 24. Duke Snider's No. 5 homer with none on in the sixth proved the winning margin. It was the Cubs' eighth straight Wrigley Field defeat without a victory this season. Loser Moe Drabowsky fanned 8 in 6 innings and his replacement, Turk Lown, whiffed 2 for a total of 10 Dodger strikeout victims.

Both Cub runs off Koufax, who recorded his second victory with-

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Paul Harney, slim, 27-year-old hitter from Worcester, Mass., wedged and putted his way around the par 70 Old White Golf Course in 63 strokes Thursday to lead the first round of the Sam Snead Festival.

Snapping at his heels was the 45-year-old hawk of the fairways, Ben Hogan, with 65. The honored host, Snead, was only a stroke behind that at 66, a score matched by 26-year-old Billy Casper of Bonita, Calif.

Gen. Duke To Undergo Checkup

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP) — Calumet Farms' Gen. Duke, the hardluck 3-year-old forced out of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness because of a sore foot, arrived at Garden State Park Thursday to undergo a series of X-rays.

Trainer Jimmy Jones had Gen. Duke shipped to Garden State so he could keep the horse under his wing. Jones has been commuting between Garden State and Pimlico where Calumet's Iron Liege attempts to add the Preakness Stakes' Saturday to his Kentucky Derby triumph.

WESLEYAN TENNIS AND GOLF TEAM VIE TODAY

Nebraska Wesleyan will do serious bidding for the Nebraska College Conference golf and tennis championships Friday at Hastings when Midland puts its team titles in these events on the line.

Jim Janke, Lincoln junior, will spearhead the Wesleyan drive for the tennis championship. He is undefeated in NCC plays and has lost only one match—at Colorado College—in two years of today.

Janke and Lincoln freshman Stan Kruschwitz will compete in the singles for Wesleyan. Kent Bond, Sidney junior and Narendra Singh, freshman from India, will play in doubles for Coach Bill Hill's netters.

Doane is also expected to make a strong bid for the tennis title.

In golf, sophomore Lew Sheary of Waverly leads the Wesleyan bid. Wesleyan finished second to Midland last year and a team of Sheary; Marvin Bradsky, Lincoln sophomore; Elroy Nelson, Oakland senior; and Roger Harbert, York senior will be after the title

Solons Approve Board Of Control Constitutional Change

Final approval was given Thursday to a bill calling for a constitutional change to put the Board of Control under direct supervision of the Legislature.

State senators approved LB 400 which puts the constitutional change on the ballot this fall. The vote was 33-8 for the change.

Introducers of the bill were Sens. Don McGinley of Ogallala, Norman Otto of Kearney, George Syas of Omaha, Harry Pize of North Platte, and A. A. Fenske of Sunol.

LB 308 Passed
Another measure receiving final approval by the solons was LB 308, which increases the salary allowed judges of the State Workmen's Compensation Court from $6,000 to $7,200. The measure passed 28-13. A total of 29 favorable votes are needed to pass a bill with the emergency clause, putting it into law when signed by the governor. Otherwise the law becomes effective 90 days after the end of the legislative session. The senators gave approval, 33-6,

State Power Battle Rages:

Schacht Writes Trussell No Apology Due REA Chief Hamil

R. L. Schacht, general manager of the Consumers Public Power District at Columbus, asserted in a letter to Lester Trussell, manager of the Norris Rural Public Power District at Beatrice, that he had no apologies to make for objecting to National REA Administrator David A. Hamil the use of 2 per cent federal REA loans being used in Nebraska to compete with privately financed organizations such as CPPD.

Trussell, whose District recently won a 10-year wholesale electric supply contract from the City of Beatrice in competitive bidding that included the Nebraska Public Power System and Consumers, the city's supplier the past decade, had written the CPPD executive that he should apologize to Hamil. "At Hamil's Request" Schacht said his April 29 letter to Hamil was sent at the latter's request pursuant to a conference between Hamil and the board of directors of CPPD in Lincoln April 23.

Schacht advised Trussell that "so far as I can see no apology is due Mr. Hamil nor has he reason to expect you to solicit one for him."

Schacht refused to comment on the other parts of the Trussell letter. He stated the letter was released to the press several hours before it was mailed to him and it has "all of the earmarks of a piece of propaganda rather than a sincere effort to solve some basic problems" and "they are not going to be solved by irresponsible personal attacks as those made upon me in your letter of May 11."

Received Letter

At Beatrice, Trussell said he had received Schacht's letter but had not determined whether it warranted a formal reply.

"Except for my one letter, the writing score is overwhelmingly on the side of Mr. Schacht who appears to feel that his problem of a lost contract is everybody's crisis," Trussell said.

"Recently he addressed a letter to Beatrice Mayor Allen Davison in which he asserted that the Consumers bid was somewhere around $138,000 better for the city than ours, in other words that Consumers was willing and able to sell electric power cheaper than Norris."

'Complaints Of Loan'

"But with the next stroke of the pen he complains to the national REA in Washington of the employment of 2 per cent federal money to the disadvantage of his agency."

"Now Mr. Schacht cannot have it both ways. We can't be both underbidding him and overbidding him depending upon whom he is writing."

"As for serving the Beatrice account we expect to provide the investment out of reserve, not out of an REA loan," Trussell said.

to a lengthy bill, LB 594, separating the Department of Motor Vehicles from the Department of Roads and Irrigation.

The measure was introduced by the Government Committee.

Bills approved on final reading were:

LB 163 (McGinley, Barbach)—Submitting to voters in 1958 constitutional amendment permitting certain state executive officers to reside away from seat of government. (42-0).

LB 292 (Bridenbaugh, Simmons, McGinley)—Submitting to voters in 1958 a constitutional amendment authorizing Legislature to cancel property taxes and assessments unpaid 15 years or more. (36-2).

LB 366 (Munnely, Adams, Syas, Vogel, Moulton, Tydrick)—Providing copies of statutes, Supreme Court reports, session laws and journals to municipal judges. (42-0).

LB 320 (Wood)—Giving Milford a sewer easement on certain Milford State Trade School land. (E). (46-0).

LB 115 (Wood)—Increasing from $250 to $300 the maximum of a preferred claim against an estate for funeral expenses. (41-0).

LB 406 (Simmons)—Clarifying wording of statutes relating to contributing to delinquency of a minor. (E). (41-0).

Bean Hole Beans?

What in the world are they?

Here's what! Now—in a can—beans with that true Northwoods flavor.

HERE'S THE ORIGINAL LUMBERJACK RECIPE:

Place a large iron pot in a hole in the ground. Fill with a layer of beans, then a layer of pork—another layer of beans—another layer of pork—add molasses and brown sugar. Seal pot tightly. Burn wood over pot. Pile coals closely around. Bake for 12 hours. Eat for breakfast, dinner or supper.

BEAN HOLE BEANS, the one and only to capture that real outdoor taste of "cooked-in-the-ground" beans. Here's the same tremendous taste that satisfies the "biggest appetites on earth"—up in the lumber camps in the Tall Tree country. Just let your family get their teeth into these beans; there are no other beans in the world like them. Look for the can with the green trees on it for genuine BEAN HOLE BEANS. Distributed by men who know beans best—STOKELY-VAN CAMP, makers of Van Camp's famous Pork and Beans. They're at your grocer's now!

There's only one flavor like this . . . now BEAN HOLE BEANS have captured it in a can for you!
